

Cosmic Panaceas: The Desperate Search for a Universal Cure-All; the Anointed's Brilliance Is Assumed Greater than Historical Evidence; Enforcing Panaceas through Government Power

A panacea is a cure-all whose root word is the Greek noun πανάκεια, (panakeia), a compound of pan (all) and akos (remedy) and thus means a "universal remedy," or "all-healing." Those who live in the hostile environment of the devil's world do so in fear of accident, disease, danger, and failure. The human mind without doctrine longs for perfection and often unwittingly imagines a world that replicates Eden and to attain it they try to legislate the Millennium.

The ultimate place of safety envisioned by a person in the cosmic system is perfection. This leads to ideologies that conjure a perfect environment. Once conceived they push for acceptance of their ideas of a man-made Nirvana. Special-interest groups are often made up of those who envision a world-changing cosmic panacea. When their ideas are not accepted by the masses they enter into hatred and antagonism toward their opponents.

Convinced they have all the answers to all the problems that face mankind, they are shocked their ideas are not enthusiastically shared and put into practice immediately.

In order for life to be fair the temperature of the earth must be maintained within a certain range; to alleviate illness, everyone must have health insurance; to eliminate poverty, everyone must be equal.

To accomplish the dream, the anointed campaign to tax the rich to care for the poor which is redistribution of wealth; to increase the tax base, private property is seized to be replaced by businesses that will generate greater revenue; and private enterprise is nationalized to prevent its just failure in the marketplace.

From these desires hatred is spawned when it is realized they either cannot be attained or, once tried, do not work. Those with common sense and orientation to reality readily reject the panaceas as machinations of the psychopathic and thus become the targets of the deranged.

Hatred and antagonism motivate the self-anointed to campaign for laws that force their views on the entire population and government blindly goes where the Constitution prohibits its presence.

In order to convince opponents to accept the validity of the cosmic panacea, efforts emerge to reeducate the masses through psychological testings. Education, business, and government subject those in their organizations to these invasions of privacy with a view toward a collectivist result: everyone believing, thinking, saying, and doing in accordance with the approved ideology.

At bottom, cosmic panaceas seek simple solutions to complex problems. There is nothing more complex than an economy the size of the United States's. It is impossible to micromanage, yet this is being attempted by those who seek a panacea where everyone prospers equally. This is a delusion since the human race is fallen and each has a sin nature. Jealousy and envy won't permit it.

Quite often the panacea is recognized by the elitist among the anointed as impossible to accomplish, but promote it as a rhetorical veil to conceal while advancing a hidden agenda.

Government-run health insurance is a cosmic panacea that politicians surely realize is impossible to manage outside the free market system. However, it is promoted as a cure-all in order to accomplish the hidden agenda of micromanaging the lives of the entire population.

If passed, Americans will rue the day once they learn how intrusive the government will become in so many private aspects of their daily lives.

The socialistic mantra of the greater good for the greater number justifies the government to violate the Constitution and in doing so commit crimes as it sets itself above the law. This leads to new laws that violate the freedom, privacy, property and lives of every citizen but those among the anointed.

7. Religion. The system whereby man by his own efforts and merits tries to gain salvation or the approbation of God. Religion is the system whereby man is put in bondage to Satan; therefore, religion is a major tactic for Satan in his effort to win the angelic conflict.

Religion is the result of unchecked reversionism combined with the interlock of several categories of the cosmic systems.

Incorporated by religion from cosmic-1 arrogance are: self-righteousness emphasizing morality, sexual, psychopathic, irrationality of emotion, and Christian service.
