

View of Jerusalem from the southeast during the time of David (100-962 B.C.), showing the Tabernacle pitched atop the threshing floor of Araunah (or Ornan) the Jebusite (upper right). David's Palace (center, right) overlooked the Tabernacle. The Citadel fortress (center) and City of David (left, center) can also be seen. The Tyropoeon Valley (top, center) and the Kidron Valley (lower right) flanked each side of the city which is situated high on the escarpment of Zion.
